

Registration of interest – Water opportunities for Aboriginal legal entities in NSW

The NSW Government is offering water access licences to eligible Aboriginal legal entities. You can register your interest in some of this water.

About this Registration of interest process

In NSW, the right to take and access water is often provided through water access licences (WALs) which are granted under the Water Management Act 2000 (WM Act). A WAL gives its holder the right to a share in the available water in a specific water source (this is known as a share component).

If a WAL holder wants to change the share of available water in that WAL, or to buy or sell a WAL, they will usually do that by water trading on the open market.

The NSW Government is committed to Closing the Gap, including developing a bespoke jurisdictional target for water. Priority 2 of the NSW Water Strategy 2021 is to ‘Recognise Aboriginal peoples’ water rights and values, and increase access to, and ownership of water for cultural, social, educational, and economic purposes’. Priority 1 in the NSW Aboriginal Water Strategy is to ‘Increase Aboriginal peoples’ access to and ownership of water to support cultural, social, economic and intergenerational outcomes’. Visit water.nsw.gov.au/nsw-water-strategy and water.nsw.gov.au/aboriginal-water-strategy for more information.

The Minister for Water is currently holding a number of WALs that have been surrendered. The Department of Climate Change, Energy, the Environment and Water (the department) is conducting this Registration of Interest (ROI) process for surrendered WALs to help increase Aboriginal ownership of water.

The department proposes to offer the shares on these WALs to eligible Aboriginal legal entities (as defined in the eligibility criteria below), either by granting them new WALs containing some or all of the available shares or by transferring some or all of the available shares to their existing WALs.

Completing this form will register your nominated legal entity’s interest to receive some of the WALs or some of the available shares in those WALs, but participating in the ROI process and registering an interest doesn’t guarantee that the legal entity will receive a WAL or any shares, or the amount of shares in which the entity registered interest.

If you are an Aboriginal legal entity and would like to participate in this ROI process and register your interest to receive one of these WALs or some of the available shares associated with those WALs, you will need to carefully review and complete this form. We refer to the legal entity that participates in this ROI process as "you" or the "participant".

This form will ask you to:

- prove your eligibility to be granted a WAL or a water share under this ROI process
- specify your interest in specific water sources
- provide some warranties and declarations about your participation in the ROI process.

Specific purpose access licences

This ROI process does not deal with specific purpose access licences (SPALs), which are a kind of WAL created for a specific purpose and are sometimes granted to Aboriginal peoples or entities. If you would like more information on SPALs, including information about how to apply, please refer to the department's website at water.nsw.gov.au/licensing-and-approvals > Specific purpose access licence.

Please attach this evidence if you email your completed ROI form, or include it if you post the completed form to the department.

Section C – Interest in water

For all ROI participants to complete. There is an interactive map on the ROI webpage which includes information on the water sources with water shares available. You can view the maps at water.nsw.gov.au/roi-for-transferring-wals-to-aboriginal-entities

The tables below ask you to nominate the water sources, and the number of water shares in each water source, in which you are expressing interest in this form. You must nominate one or more water shares in one or more water sources to complete this form.

Usually, the maximum amount of water that can be allocated per water share, per year is one megalitre or one million litres. However, as indicated earlier in this form, the amount of water provided in any given year varies according to availability and the applicable available water determination.

The following information about fees and charges is for information only. As noted earlier in this form, if you are successful in this ROI process, you will not need to pay any costs to obtain the WALs(s) and/or shares from the Minister for Water, but you will be responsible for any other costs associated with those WALs or water shares or any water under those WALs or water shares. You should consider this information in deciding how many water shares and which water sources you will nominate.

The minimum annual charge for the 2025–2026 water year (1 October 2025 – 30 June 2026) is $295.66. This means that if the total annual water management charges for the water shares are less than this amount, the licence holder will still need to pay $295.66 in the 2025–2026 water year, if the transfer dealing is completed and the water made available to you before 30 June 2026.

The water management charges apply each year and are adjusted annually. Charges and fees are exempt from GST.

Surface water – unregulated river water sources

Unregulated river access licences are the only category available in unregulated river water sources.

For these water sources, the licence holder can choose whether the annual licence charges are paid as a 1-part or 2-part tariff. The difference between them is explained on the WaterNSW website at waternsw.com.au/pricing. If a 2-part tariff is chosen, a minimum cost will be charged, and the additional costs will depend on the actual amount of water taken. Because of this, the prices for 2-part tariffs in the table show both the minimum and maximum amounts.
